Each year millions of pets are euthanized due to overpopulation in shelters – too many pets and not enough homes!

The veterinarians at Sierra Veterinary Clinic believe that spaying or neutering your pet is one of the most important pet health choices you can make for your pet and your community.

Altered pets have twice the average life expectancy of unaltered pets.

Spaying or neutering your pet is an important part of pet ownership and an important choice to keep your pet happy and healthy.

What are the benefits of spaying or neutering your pet?

Female pets altered before their first heat cycle have a significantly reduced chance of developing breast, uterine and ovarian cancer. In addition, spayed pets can't develop pyometra (an infection of the uterus) that can result in death.

Male pets altered before they become sexually mature can prevent Benign Prostatic Hyperplasia (BPH). They are less aggressive and less likely to exhibit unwanted behaviors, such as spraying, inappropriate elimination and mounting. In addition, they will have less desire to roam the neighborhood.
